

The Discipline of Sleep Medicine at the University of Sydney and CIRUS would like to promote the availability of 2 opportunities for world-class sleep researchers.

The Discipline of Sleep Medicine is the largest single university-based network of sleep researchers outside of the United States with diverse interests ranging including sleep-disordered breathing, sleep psychiatry, human sleep biology and mathematical modeling of sleep-wake function. It encompasses a range of institutions and departments.

The Centre for Integrated Research and Understanding of Sleep \(CIRUS\) at the University of Sydney was established in 2009 as a National Health and Medical Research Council - Centre of Clinical Research Excellence. The aim of CIRUS is to investigate the biology of sleep, and to prevent and to treat disorders of sleep through a uniquely interdisciplinary approach. CIRUS supports world-class interventional sleep health research aimed to inform clinical practice and alter health policy with the goal of fostering the next generation of sleep researchers and research leaders.

Australian Laureate Fellowships (tenable at University of Sydney)

The Australian Laureate Fellowships scheme reflects Australia's commitment to support excellence in research by attracting world-class researchers and research leaders to key positions, and creating new rewards and incentives for the application of their talents in Australia.

Open to applications from outstanding researchers of international repute, the Australian Laureate Fellowships scheme encourages proposals involving Australian and international researchers by providing eligible Australian Laureate Fellows with Project Funding in addition to a salary supplement and salary-related (on-cost) support.

For funding commencing in 2011, up to 17 Australian Laureate Fellowships may be awarded, with up to two of these fellowships allocated to exceptional female researchers who will also undertake an ambassadorial role to promote women in research. Preference will be given to researchers who will play a significant, sustained leadership and mentoring role in building Australia's internationally competitive research capacity.

The Administering Organisation (which may include Australian higher education institutions and some Australian publicly funded research institutions) will appoint the Australian Laureate Fellow as a Professor (Level E) or equivalent and provide the relevant salary.

One call for submission of Australian Laureate Fellowships proposals is made each year.
